REPORT OF SUPERINTENDENT

To the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN: I submit herewith my annual report of the schools under your charge for the school year 1917-18, the twenty-sixth that I have had the pleasure of submitting for the Plainfield Public Schools.

For the purpose of conservation and to meet the conditions of war times the report is very much reduced in size.

The general statistics are as follows:

Total Enrollment .....	4,972
Average Enrollment .....	4,411
Average Attendance .....	3,752
Number of Teachers .....	172

This shows a total increase in enrollment of 252 pupils. This increase has been almost entirely in the grades; the High School has an increase of fifty-four pupils. As it has been growing in previous years fifty or more pupils annually this would indicate that war conditions have kept about one hundred out of the High School the past year who would otherwise have continued their education.

The grammar grades have felt the same influence, but not to so large a degree.

GENERAL CONDITIONS.

The year has been one of steady conscientious work. In spite of the excitements and large extra demands on time and attention, due to war conditions, it has been a year of satisfactory accomplishment.

We have undertaken no new lines of work, except that connected with war needs; but have devoted our efforts to holding our thoroughness and efficiency in the regular lines of work.

NEW ACCOMMODATIONS

The increase in enrollment this year was over two hundred and fifty; last year it was 235. If the growth were all in one school it would necessitate the addition of about six class rooms each year.

Our latest addition was the Emerson School, opened in 1916, which was filled at the opening. The coming fall will see several overflow classes in that building; also in the Lincoln, the Irving and the Jefferson. It is urgently necessary, therefore, that the Emerson building should be completed at as early a date as war conditions will permit.

When the war is over and business conditions have settled back to normal the High School and grammar grades will undoubtedly grow more rapidly than ever, and by the time the Emerson is finished it will be greatly needed as a relief for the whole eastern part of the city and at the same time will afford relief for the grammar grades by transference of classes.

IN RECOGNITION

During the year we lost another valuable teacher, through her retirement under the provisions of the State Pension Law.

Miss Anna W. Booraem had taught 42 years continuously in the Plainfield schools. She was a thorough, efficient teacher, conscientious and deeply devoted to her work. In spite of her long service, her work was still fresh and strong; but impaired health made it necessary for her to obtain release from the physical strain.

Her lifetime of faithful service with the children who are now citizens enrolls her as one of the city's benefactors.

EFFECT OF THE WAR

The schools, like all parts of our social structure, have been greatly affected by war conditions. Extreme economy has been practiced in the matter of books and supplies and in the general management both as a means of keeping down expenses and also for conservation of the Nation's resources. This has resulted in restricting somewhat the field of our operation and has made it harder to produce results, but the efficiency of the fundamental work has been maintained.

The chief way in which the schools have felt the war, however, is in the response which they have given to the demand that every one should do his bit. The schools have participated enthusiastically and effectively in practically every war activity in which their participation has been possible. While this has created much unrest in the pupils and has tended to interfere with the ordinary school activities, I have felt that the resultant loss was much more than compensated by the development in patriotism and the other civic virtues which resulted from the children's sharing in the National movements.

The material results they have accomplished in aid of war prosecution of relief work have been remarkable.

The Plainfield schools were the first public schools to organize fully under the new Junior Red Cross movement, and they prosecuted the work actively through the year, making 204 garments, 5,279 pieces of knitted articles, nearly 70,000 surgical dressings, also tables, boxes, booths, comfort bags and other articles of various kinds.

The money collected in the Red Cross treasuries of the various public schools amounted to nearly five thousand dollars ($5,000.00). This money purchases material which the pupils further enhance in value by the labor they put into it in converting it into articles for Red Cross use.

The War Savings Stamps and Thrift Stamps enlisted 70% of the pupils and produced a saving of $21,000 up to the close of school in June.

Through their own efforts, or through the interest of their parents, the pupils own Liberty Bonds amounting to $83,950 in value.

The quantities of material of every kind that they have collected in the various conservation movements cannot be estimated.

They have also been of very great assistance in dissemination of literature in the various national movements or for the Government appeals.

They are better Americans for the war work they have done.

The war has brought into strong contrast the two educational systems of Germany and the United States.

The much praised German system with its so-called practical efficiency, narrowly limiting the educational outlook of nine-tenths of its children, has met the expectations of its originators and has created a vast body of efficient, obedient automatons; but has produced brutes, not men.

The American system, with its widely extended high schools, its devotion to ideals and its development of individualism, has produced real men with initiative, enthusiasm and conviction, who with a few months of intensive training have gone "over the top" against the product of German schools with their years of military training.

Our American system will undoubtedly be greatly modified in its details as the result of our war experiences, but the fundamental aims have been proven sound and need to be emphasized more than ever.

The German development should warn us against that which is solely practical, and make us cling more strongly than ever to the humanistic, character-developing power of our educational scheme.

AIMS OF THE SCHOOLS

"1. To give all of its pupils the power to speak and read and write the English language.

2. To promote an understanding and respect for the physical body and for its needs and rights.

3. To give them the power to observe, understand and appreciate the things of nature.

4. To establish and fix certain common standards and ideals of civic and social life.

5. To develop the individual and fit him for a life of work with his fellows.

6. To give a sound and wholesome view of life; to shape and render more perfect the moral sense and moral judgment; to establish right ideals, right habits and right character."

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY M. MAXSON.
